Campus prepped for total switchover of phone systems by next Tuesday

The switch is on.

Over the coming Memorial Day weekend all campus telephones will be switched over to the newly installed Northern Telecom system.

For 99 percent of campus offices, the changeover will be accompanied by new phone numbers—and a new, computer-generated campus directory of those numbers.

Training classes on how to use the new phone system are being held in the commuter lounge in the basement of Benson Hall. The classes end this Thursday, May 22. For those who missed these regular classes, make-up classes are scheduled in the same location May 27-29.

The new telephone directories were scheduled to be distributed at the classes. For those who do not have a new directory by next week, please call x5353 on or after May 27.

Members of the campus community are expected to use the new telephone directories and to call all the right new numbers beginning next Tuesday, May 27. Outside calls to old extensions will be automatically rerouted to the campus telephone operator, who will inform these callers of the new extensions.

The first three digits of the College phone number—651—are being retained, as is the main campus switchboard number, 651-5000.

... and congratulations to everyone!

Faculty and staff attending this Friday's commencement exercises in the Field House are requested to be seated by 9:50 a.m. to enable the procession to begin.

Other major College events during commencement week are as follows:

Hooding and Graduate Awards Ceremony—2 p.m. Thursday in Elstad Auditorium.

Reception for graduating students and their families—4 to 6 p.m. Thursday on the mall side of Ely Center (in Chapel Hall if raining).

Commencement breakfast: 7:30 to 9 a.m. Friday in the Cafeteria.

Board of Trustees: committee meetings Thursday morning and full board meeting Friday afternoon.

Congratulations to all graduating students and to all faculty, staff and family members who enabled these students to "commence"!

Lee gives qualified support to Education of the Deaf Act

The Education of the Deaf Act of 1985 (EDA) "provides opportunity for a heightened level of visibility and new vigor to be placed at the disposal of the higher education community on behalf of deaf persons," said President Jerry C. Lee before the Subcommittee on Select Education of the House Committee on Education and Labor on May 8.

"Gallaudet College is privileged to be a part of this movement and sees its role in becoming designated as Gallaudet University as highly supportive of the expanded mission and goals recently approved by the Board of Trustees," said Dr. Lee, one of seven persons who testified on the EDA bill before the subcommittee chaired by Rep. Pat Williams (D-Mont.).

While praising most of the legislation as either appropriate and/or helpful for the College, Dr. Lee suggested one significant change under Title IV regarding the appointment of a project officer to oversee educational programs for deaf students.

Dr. Lee stressed that added emphasis on oversight mechanisms already in place—in the federal administration, Congress, the Board of Trustees, various accrediting bodies and numerous internal review and ad hoc committees, for example—would be preferred to new powers invested in the project officer.

Dr. Lee also suggested a change in EDA language expressly forbidding representation on the Commission on Education of the Deaf by persons currently or recently connected with either Gallaudet or the National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID).

He noted that persons connected with the two institutions have significant expertise in the education of deaf persons, making their exclusion from the commission "somewhat incongruous."

'University Week' plans take shape

A wide variety of special events, publications and exhibits are being planned for "University Week," the October 20-25 celebration of Gallaudet College becoming Gallaudet University.

The planning is picking up both speed and specificity, despite the lack of assurance concerning when Congress will approve the Education of the Deaf Act that includes the provision for university status.

"We're hoping that the bill will be approved before Congress recesses this summer," said Doin Hicks, vice president for Institutional Research, Planning and Evaluation and coordinator of the University Week celebration. "If the bill is not approved and signed by then, the celebration will most likely be postponed until next spring."

The Education of the Deaf Act was approved by the full Senate on Tuesday, May 6. The House Subcommittee on Select Education, chaired by Rep. Pat Williams (D-Mont.), heard testimony on the bill May 8.

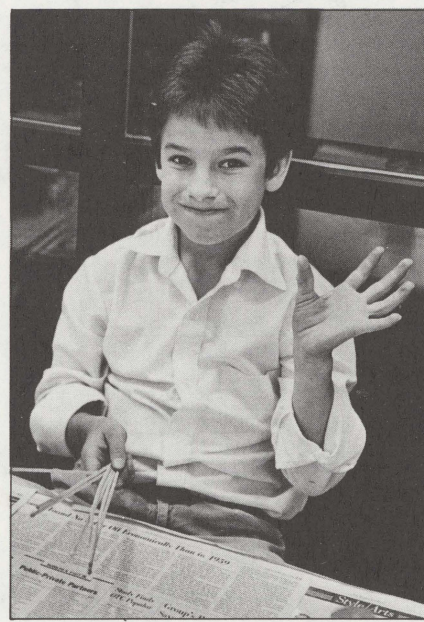

President Jerry C. Lee was among those who testified May 8, urging passage of the bill with several suggested changes unrelated to the university status provision.

Observers at the hearing said there was unanimous support for designating the College as Gallaudet University. (See related story on the subcommittee hearing.)

Staff, faculty, alumni and students are encouraged to mark their calendars in anticipation that University Week will be held as scheduled this fall.

The special times to reserve are for the Thursday, Oct. 23 "Distinguished Lecture" for faculty and staff; the Friday, Oct. 24 Convocation, the formal celebration of university status; and the Saturday, Oct. 25 football homecoming game followed that evening by a gala ball for everyone at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on Capitol Hill.

Faculty, staff participate in workshops on substance abuse among deaf teens

"With-It' Without It," a National Academy series of eight workshops on strategies for prevention and treatment of substance abuse among deaf adolescents, was one of the most comprehensive programs at the recent Second National Conference on the Habilitation and Rehabilitation of Deaf Adolescents in Oklahoma.

The workshops, led by experts from throughout the country, focused on topics ranging from prevention to treatment to aftercare. The speakers also suggested ways to assist families, schools and communities that include chemically dependent hearing impaired adolescents.

Corinne Jensema, coordinator of the National Academy's Office of Training, organized the workshops in response to an initial request from the Maryland Task Force on Drug and Alcohol Abuse among the Deaf.

Several College faculty and staff were among the 12 workshop presenters. Barbara Pollard, assistant professor of sociology and social work, was a co-presenter on the topic of "Therapeutic Techniques for Adolescent Children of Chemically Dependent Families." Dr. Pollard also assisted Dr. Jensema in developing the series of workshops.

John Mihall, director of the Student Development Office; Emily Smith, staff psychologist in the Counseling Center; and Melanie Wilding, a student majoring in psychology, discussed Gallaudet's approach to combatting chemical dependency in "A Student Development Approach to Substance Abuse: Prevention/Education." Part of Wilding's travel expenses was paid by the Lioness Club of Vienna, Va.

Films supplemented the workshop presentations. The National Academy had arranged with two commercial film companies, FilmFare and Durrin Films, to caption the prevention films, "Saying No to Drugs and Alcohol" and "Kevin's Story," respectively. The films were well received at the conference and are now available for schools to use with deaf adolescents.

The National Academy also maintained an information table at the conference and provided participants with comprehensive packets of material that included reference and resource lists. These packets of material are available for purchase through the National Academy.

Dr. Jensema said that the Office of Training is considering offering similar workshops to drug and alcohol clinics that want to improve their service to deaf adolescents.

For more information about the workshops, materials packets or films, contact Dr. Jensema at x5480.

Barbara Brauer twice has been misidentified in On the Green this year. She is assistant professor in the Graduate Department of Counseling and a research scientist for the Center for Studies in Education and Human Development (CSEHD). Dr. Brauer has no official connection with the Department of Psychology, nor is she an "assistant professor in CSEHD" as listed in the campus directory and reported in OTG. We apologize to Dr. Brauer, CSEHD and the two departments for creating or perpetuating any confusion.

Special week planned

The Board of Trustees and the Gallaudet College Alumni Association will both be meeting on campus that week. In addition, hundreds of dignitaries, including university presidents throughout the country, will be invited to the convocation.

The historic occasion will also be marked with a variety of academic and athletic events for students and alumni in addition to special exhibits, publications and mementos to be enjoyed by all.

The proposed theme for the week, "A Celebration of Learning," will be incorporated into a special logo to be used on printed materials marking the event.

Designers are also at work revising the college seal and flag to reflect university status. And Dr. Lee has announced that all living graduates of the College—an estimated 8,000 alumni—will be sent new Gallaudet University diplomas.

The larger effects of university status will be felt as soon as the Education of the Deaf Act is signed into law. Such visible, national recognition of Gallaudet's growth and advancement, said Dr. Lee, will aid particularly in recruitment of students and faculty, in relations with Congress and in fundraising.

Phones: A total switch

which involved new wiring within and between all buildings on campus, is—rather remarkably—happening as scheduled months ago. Credit goes to Chuck Mann and his staff in Business Services as well as to the Northern Telecom work crews.

The old phone equipment will be picked up by AT&T beginning May 27. Because there are 1,500 of these old phones, the pick-up process is expected to continue for about a week.

Because of skyrocketing long-distance rates under the Federal Telecommunications System (FTS), the College is preparing invitations for companies to bid on providing the College's long-distance service.

In the meantime, the College is temporarily using AT&T as its long-distance service supplier. Campus long-distance usage will then be monitored in preparation for the invitations to bid.

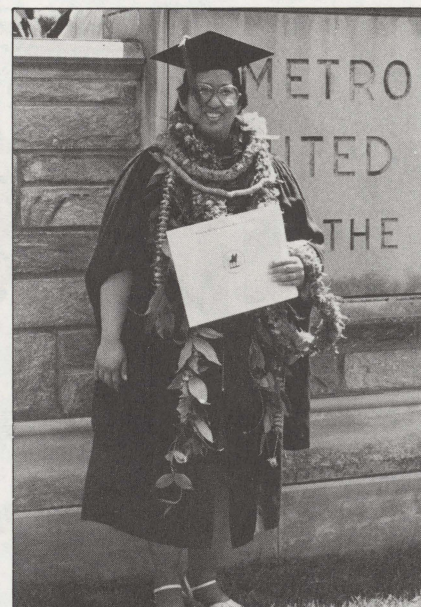

The College's regular long-distance service provider is expected to be selected, and a contract signed, before the end of the year.

'Liberty' cycling event gets start at Gallaudet

The 1986 Kodak Liberty Ride Festival, a day-long cycling and entertainment event held Sunday, May 18, involved hundreds of cyclists taking off from Kendall Green.

The event was sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Co. to celebrate the Statue of Liberty/Ellis Island Restoration Project. More than 100 cities participated nationwide.

The bike ride included 10-, 15- and 25-mile scenic courses around the D.C. area followed by a picnic lunch. A highlight of the day's activities was a satellite broadcast of "America Rocks," performed live from the Louisiana Superdome.

The Rev. Francine Kenyon, a Gallaudet alumna and possibly the only deaf person ordained a deacon in the United Methodist Church, displays the Master of Divinity diploma she received May 5 from Wesley Theological Seminary.

Lee speaks on EDA

Despite such reservations, Dr. Lee concluded by affirming and supporting the bill. "Ascension to University status will be a singularly significant milestone in Gallaudet's 122-year history," he said. "Other provisions of the Act similarly are important to the education and well-being of our hearing impaired citizens."

Bruce M. Carnes, deputy undersecretary for planning, budget and evaluation at the U.S. Department of Education, supported a proposed amendment to the EDA that would designate $1 million of Gallaudet's and NTID's annual federal appropriations as endowment grants.

To receive the endowment funds, each institution would be required to raise matching funds from nonfederal sources. The proposed amendment would restrict expenditures through FY 2007 to half of the endowment's investment income earned each year.

Carnes also said he was "very concerned" that the EDA bill authorizes 6 percent annual increases in Gallaudet's and NTID's federal funding through fiscal year 1991. "We believe that, at a time when we are all aiming to reduce the budget deficits substantially, these authorizations that increase twice as fast as inflation are excessive," said Carnes.

Also submitting testimony at the May 8 subcommittee hearing were Rep. David Bonior (R-Mich.), Dr. William Castle (NTID president), Bob Lauritsen (St. Paul Technical Vocational Institute), Gary Olsen (NAD executive director) and Patricia Brown (American Society for Deaf Children).

Edward Allen Fay, who taught at Gallaudet from 1866 to 1923, was erroneously referred to as a "deaf educator and editor" in the May 12 On the Green. Fay was not deaf. Also, the article on the Edward Allen Fay Award from the CEASD should have noted that Jack Gannon was not the only recipient. A second Fay Award was given to Richard Brill, a Gallaudet alumnus, author and retired educator of deaf students.

Anne Butler wins newly established president's award

"Gallaudet is fortunate to have a faculty member with Dr. Butler's credentials," said President Jerry C. Lee in presenting the newly established President's Distinguished Faculty Achievement Award to Anne Butler, associate professor of history.

President Lee praised her excellence as a scholar and as a member of the College community.

"Receiving this award is a tremendous honor," said Dr. Butler. "It is more than a personal tribute; the award is also an advancement in providing scholarship funds for our students. And what benefits the students is important to the whole College community," she said.

The award, established this year by Dr. Lee, will annually recognize a faculty member for exemplary performance in one of more of the following areas: instruction, research, scholarship or service to the College community.

The recipient will have his or her name engraved on a plaque, and $500 will be donated by President and Mrs. Lee to the College's scholarship fund in the recipient's name.

"Joan and I were aware that the College needed an appropriate way to honor distinguished faculty members," said Dr. Lee. "This award, in a small

Faculty & staff get special recognition

At the 1986 annual Awards Night held May 5 at Elstad Auditorium, the following faculty and staff members were among those who received awards:

Anne Butler, associate professor of history, "Teacher of the Year" award from Alpha Sigma Pi.

Francis Higgins, professor emeritus, "Man of the Year" award from Alpha Sigma Pi.

Sue Gill, instructor of physical education and director of the Gallaudet Dance Company, "Woman of the Year" award from Chi Omega Psi.

Robert Westerman, athletic director, "Man of the Year" award from Chi Omega Psi.

John Madison, assistant professor of education, "Man of Merit" award from Delta Epsilon.

Mary Malzkahn, assistant professor of government, "Faculty/Staff Member of the Year" award from the Student Body Government.

Mike Rosenbaum, MSSD social studies teacher, the Oriental Club award.

Marsha Wetzel, residence education assistant, and Andy Brinks, physical education instructor, both of Northwest Campus, won physical fitness awards.

This year's "Tower Clock" was dedicated to Donald Ammons, instructor of romance languages.

Awards Night concluded with a reception in "Ole Jim."

At another event, the Theatre Arts Department's 27th annual Drama Awards held May 12, Lynn Jacobowitz and Mike Kemp, both from the Department of Sign Communication, received special certificates for their appearances in Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16th."

way, fills that need. It is also our way of thanking not only one but all members of the collegiate faculty who are making significant contributions to Gallaudet."

Dr. Butler came to Gallaudet in 1981. She initiated a geography course for undergraduate majors in education, a requirement for teacher certification to teach in the District, and she established the first course in Canadian history at Gallaudet last fall.

Besides geography and Canadian history, Dr. Butler is currently teaching American history.

Her book, "Daughters of Joy, Sisters of Misery: Prostitutes in the American West, 1865-90," published last year, gained popular as well as academic acclaim. A graduate of Towson State University, Dr. Butler earned her master's degree and PhD at the University of Maryland.

The Public Relations Office recently published its first quarterly collection of media reports on or related to the College. The bound volume was shared with all budget unit heads.

College driver/dispatcher Clarence Franklin dies

Clarence E. Franklin, 48, a driver/dispatcher in the Transportation Department, died Sunday evening, May 11 of kidney failure.

Franklin was widely known by students, faculty and staff as the friendly person who drove KDES and shuttle buses and who handled many of the calls to the Transportation Department.

Franklin began working at Gallaudet in October 1978. He retired at the end of April due to failing health.

Fabray presents MacDougall awards at luncheon honoring student writers

Nanette Fabray was on hand May 13 to present awards to six winners of the seventh annual MacDougall Creative Writing Competition (MCWC).

Sophomore Raymond M. Luczak, a second-place winner in the 1985 competition, received the $1,000 first prize. Senior Tommy Brislin, a previous MCWC winner, received the second-place prize of $400.

Junior Allan Miller and sophomore Sammy Padilla were third-place co-winners, each receiving $200. Junior Carl Snyder and sophomore Eric Feris won honorable mention, each receiving $100.

Judges for this year's competition were John Canney, associate professor of English and coordinator of the competition; Will Madsen, associate professor of sign communication; Melissa August, Washington-based writer for Time magazine; and Richard Frantz, 1985 alumnus and first-place winner of the MacDougall award in 1984.

President Jerry C. Lee and Mrs. Lee joined Fabray to welcome the winners, judges, other participants in the competition and guests at a special luncheon at the Edgar Minor Gallaudet Residence last Tuesday.

The MCWC was started by Fabray and her son, Jamie MacDougall, in 1979 in cooperation with the Writers Guild Foundation. Established in honor of her late husband, Randy, a script writer, the competition recognizes excellence in English and creative writing.

Wrestlers to enter British tournament

MSSD senior Jeff White and Gallaudet freshman Charles Hammack are among the top wrestlers nationwide selected to compete in the Grande Bretagne Tournament this summer in Manchester, England.

The tournament, cosponsored by the NCAA Coaches Association and USA Wrestling, receives financial support from the American Athletic Association of the Deaf.

White, whose career record is 83-23-1, was a Maryland Junior Olympics qualifier.

Hammack, an NCAA Division III qualifier, won the Illinois State Championship in 1985.

Both athletes participated in the World Games for the Deaf in Los Angeles last summer and in the Agustin Briseno Tournament in Mexico City.

James Shartner, physical education instructor at the Maryland School for the Deaf, will accompany White and Hammack on the England trip. Shartner coached the U.S. team at the World Games.

Bachtel leads the spring sports stars

Betsy Bachtel, already an All-American in cross country, will attempt to duplicate that status during this week's NCAA Division III outdoor track and field championships in Wisconsin.

Bachtel led the women's track team to a sixth-place finish in the Mason-Dixon Championships held May 2-3 at Christopher Newport College. Gallaudet's premier long-distance runner captured the 5,000-meter event in 17:44 and the 3,000-meters in 10:08.

The men's track and field team also finished sixth in the Mason-Dixon meet. The team was led by Steve McLeod's third-place finishes in the long jump and javelin and fourth-place in the triple jump.

The men's baseball team completed its season May 3 by winning both ends of a doubleheader with Bowie State, 5-2 and 6-5. The team had a 6-14 season record, finishing the second half of the season at 5-5 after a 1-9 start.

The women's softball team did the opposite—starting the year strongly (6 wins and 7 losses), then losing its last 8 games to finish with a 6-15 record. Two losses to Salisbury State on April 29 still made the team feel proud, because SS is ranked ninth nationally in Division III.

The women's tennis team finished with a 4-4 mark. The men's tennis team took a record of 1-6 into its season finale at Penn State Capitol.

Special Olympics slated May 30-31

More than 750 Special Olympics athletes from the District will gather on campus May 30 and 31 for the chapter's 18th Annual Spring Games.

In addition to swimming, gymnastics, volleyball, soccer and other traditional summer olympic sports, there will be 48 new events.

"With the inclusion of so many additional events, it's clear that the Special Olympics organization intends to continue in the olympic tradition," said Steve Mason, training and program director of the D.C. Special Olympics.

Rare book exhibit open this Friday

"The recorded history of deaf persons is almost exclusively a history of their education," said archivist David de Lorenzo, outlining the deafness-related rare book collection in the Museum in Chapel Hall.

The exhibit of 74 books gathered from international sources and dated between 1620 and 1876, will be open to the public on Commencement Day, May 23, from 1 to 5 p.m.

According to de Lorenzo, Gallaudet's collection of rare books on deafness began with the acquisition of Charles Baker's private library of more than 500 texts, periodicals, journals, treatises, reports and biographies on deafness, dating from 1546 to 1873.

The oldest book in the exhibit is "Reduction de las letras y arte para enseñar a hablar a los mudos" by Juan Pablo Bonet and dated 1620. It contains the first formal treatise on the manual alphabet as a means of educating deaf persons.

Harold "Tubby" Raymond, head football coach at the University of Delaware, was the keynote speaker at the Gallaudet Sports Awards Banquet held May 6 at La Fontaine Bleu in Lanham, Md.

Among Ourselves

Nancy Lewis, a sign language and communication skills instructor at Northwest Campus, and Jeff Lewis, an instructor in the Department of Counseling, have taken leaves of absence to spend several months in Australia. Nancy will offer a series of courses and workshops for deaf people through the Adult Education Centre of Sydney.

Christine Rae Bounds, a counselor at MSSD, made a presentation on "Consciousness-Raising for Deaf Adolescent Females" at the Second National Conference on the Habilitation and Rehabilitation of Deaf Adolescents April 30 in Oklahoma.

Joan Lee has been inducted into the Delta Zeta Sorority. Delta Zeta is a national organization for college women, based in Oxford, Ohio, that commits a significant part of its resources to serving hearing impaired people. The sorority has assisted Gallaudet in a variety of ways over the years through grants and scholarships.

Betsy Kipila and Barbara Williams recently conducted a three-day workshop on Cued Speech for 13 staff members of the Sterck School for the Deaf in Newark, Del.

PE teacher is named to special commission

Jimmy Calloway, assistant professor in the Department of Physical Education, was recently named a senior advisor to the President's Commission on Americans Outdoors.

The commission, which consists of 19 experts in the fields of environment, recreation and political science, will report to President Reagan in December of this year.

"The advisors represent a broad range of experience," said the chair of the commission, Governor Lamar Alexander of Tennessee. "We are happy to have them provide us with insight as we consider America's needs for outdoor recreation into the next century."

Dr. Calloway is coordinator of the recreational studies program at Gallaudet.

Sandra Frankel of the Department of Sign Communication recently presented a paper on "ASL Structure and Its Implications for Interpreters" at an interpreter workshop at Northwestern Community College in Winsted, Conn.

Laura-Jean Gilbert, director of Publications and Production, was honored last month with the "Superior Graphics of the Month" award from the Baker-Webster Printing Co. The award recognizes Gilbert's "excellent judgment in quality printing and design" of the "President's Annual Report, 1984-85."
